HONESTY CHALLENGE:

You'll need a few supplies for this week's challenge: plastic wrap (Saran™ wrap) and assorted candy or chocolate (choose something that all of the kids in your family enjoy). Unroll a lot of plastic wrap, shaping a ball as you go. Once you've got a baseball-sized ball, start wrapping up candy – one piece every few layers or so – until you've got a large ball containing a lot of candy. Talk with each other about how telling lies can trap you just like the candy is trapped in the plastic. Commit to always telling each other the truth. Keep the candy ball somewhere you can see it. Any time your parent sees you being honest when they know you were probably tempted to lie, you can unwrap a few layers of plastic and reveal a piece of candy to enjoy. By the time you get the ball completely unwrapped, hopefully you'll have formed a habit of honesty!
