

Gratitude

letting others know you
see how they've helped you

GRATITUDE GAME:

Play a game of 20 Questions: Gratitude Edition. Each person should come up with two to three things or people they're thankful for. Write your answers down but don't let anyone see. Then take turns going around the table, asking each other up to 20 questions to guess what or who each person is thankful for. You can play two to three rounds depending on the time you have. After each answer is correctly guessed (or everyone runs out of questions!), be sure and share why you're thankful for that person or thing.

Just for FUN!

Read about another chain of gratitude that started when 9-year-old Carl decided to donate comic books to soldiers. <http://bit.ly/2qXcBFV>
